More...Q: PostgreSQL Configuration for Multiple instances on Amazon EC2 I have got several instances of PostgreSQL configured on my EC2 machine (so that I have some service to archive log files). I have configured the postgresql.conf file to have multiple instances working - listen_addresses = '*' However, it seems that the PostgreSQL server isn't able to listen to requests on all instances. Any idea what am I doing wrong here?

Thanks A: You might be able to get around the problem with the listen_addresses directive by running the postgres instance with the -D parameter, passing the hostname to allow the postgres daemon to bind to multiple addresses. For example: $ pg_ctl -D /your_db_name -l /dev/null -o "-p 5432" start $ nc -l -p 5432 Obviously you'll need to have EC2 instances setup to listen on a loopback interface (which doesn't matter in this example). Note: This is a bit of a workaround and won't give any security enhancements over single instance configuration.

According to the hadith, the daffodils were mentioned in the Qur'an and said to have formed a ring around the Throne of the Almighty. While the text was recited by the Prophet Mohammad, its precise interpretation was left to some of his companions, whose narratives are referred to as differing accounts. This is one of the many hadith that tell about the Prophet Mohammad, the Messenger of Allāh. The Daffodils the Prophet told us is the one found in Surat Al-'Alaq. After the messenger recites the verse, the daffodils turn green, signifying that the daffodils are from the Unseen world. The sun shines and the colour changes are also said to be signs that the prophet is speaking the truth. A man of knowledge was asked about the verse "The sun and moon do not rise except by permission of Allah" (Sura 25:64). He said that the verse means that the sun does not rise as it has no willpower, but Allah created it as a given thing, by His will. He created the Sun along with other things by His will. So Allah has the "will" and He creates the sun through His will. Allah is the One in Whom the past, present and future is in a state of completion. To Him is the "will" of the past, present and future. This is why Allah has a will to create the Sun as well. Allah also creates the Sun the same way as He created other things.
