The Replay Music Review: REPLAY

MUSIC was easy to work with and was a good app to use for recording streaming music. I really like that it did what it said it would do. However, it does have a small bug where if you pause the recording before the recording has finished, it will not resume recording. This app is compatible with all iPods, iPhones, and iPads. If you are looking for a really good app that has over 20 different features, this app is for you.

The Verdict: No app is perfect, and with software like this, you will find that there are far fewer really good applications. For everyone, is there an application that you use on a regular basis? Let us know in the comments below!
